She is also a founding member of the board of the Women's Leadership Fund, an investment fund based in Geneva.

Her varied influential roles have included working as Consul-General in Los Angeles and as lecturer at Harvard University. Campbell's initiative also led to her become a founding member of the Club of Madrid, an independent organization of former heads of state and government whose main purpose is to strengthen democracy in the world.

For women, Kim Campbell has held the chair of the Council of Women World Leaders, a network of women who hold or have held the office of president or prime minister. She also served as president of the International Women's Forum, a global organization of women of significant and diverse achievement. She has been confirmed as the first visionary for A Bold Vision, a national visioning conference for Canadian women in 2014.

Campbell's further Canadian contributions include becoming the first woman to hold the Justice and Defence portfolios, and thus the first woman to be Defence Minister of a NATO country.
