Jo Salter – One of the 50 most inspiring women in the world. Imagine being in control of 25 million pounds of screaming metal flying just above the ground – decisions have to be immediate, reflexes lightning fast. For Jo Salter, this was just the day job when she became Britain's first female fighter pilot flying the Tornado GR1, then one of 5 women fighter pilots in the world.

Jo Salter's military experience is multifaceted: technical; professional; managerial; political. Add 5 years of e-commerce experience and management consultancy in both the public and private sector, an MBA, Associate Lectureship with the Open University Business School – and no wonder Jo is so successful in combining management and leadership theory with her unique practical experiences to present a humorous and moving range of speeches.

As a combat ready pilot with 617 Squadron, the Dambusters, Jo Salter experienced operational tours of duty and took part in large international NATO exercises around the world. She worked in intelligence. She became a fast jet instructor. Her tales from such an elite world offer alternative insights into personal development, meeting challenges and succeeding in the face of adversity.

Jo Salter uses her boundless energy, never-failing humour, compassion and understanding, as well as her advanced skills, to facilitate workshops, carry out life changing seminars, conduct high performance coaching sessions and enable individuals and organisations to solve problems.

Achievement is a way of life for Jo; she is a determined and visionary realist. Be prepared to be challenged.
